20. (Previously presented) The dental compound dispenser of claim 18 further comprising:

a main body, wherein said main body portion is predominantly configured about a first principal axis; and wherein said attachment portion is adapted to attach said dental compound dispenser along an axis substantially parallel to said first principal axis.

21. (Previously presented) A dental compound dispenser, said dental compound dispenser comprising:

a main body assembly, said main body assembly comprising:

a main body portion, wherein said main body portion is predominantly configured about a first principal axis, an attachment portion, said attachment portion coupled to said main body portion, said attachment portion disposed to attach to a retraction tool handle;

a compound reservoir, said compound reservoir coupled to said main body portion;

and

a compound container disposed predominantly within said compound reservoir, wherein said compound container is adhered to said compound reservoir with adhesive.

22. (Previously presented) The dental compound dispenser of claim 21 wherein said attachment portion comprises two or more elastic clips.

23. (Previously presented) The dental compound dispenser of claim 21 wherein said attachment portion comprises an annulus, and wherein said annulus is at least in part a complete circumferential annulus.
